and an unestimated quantity taken by hucksters, a total of more than 20,000 packages of a value of $63,000.

Seventeen of the 31 cars that went by freight were beans and 14 were solid cars of tomatoes, peppers and potatoes and mixed cars in which beans were included. The packages forwarded by express embraced all of these vegetables and sprouts and okra in addition. The larger part of the stuff was shipped direct by the growers and some through brokers, the balance being consigned. The best quality stuff was bought

Distribution of this week's Lake region vegetables has been about the same, New York City history taking more than half of the crop. In the week ending Wednesday night, Canal Point rolled 10 cars, Melick Lake 5 cars, Cardwell 2 cars, Belle Glade 5 cars and South Bay 2 cars. The 7 cars out Thursday night of last week was the largest number in the week, with 5 cars Friday night and 5 cars out Saturday night. Six cars rolled out Sunday night of this week and 5 cars Tuesday night but the number dropped to 2 cars Wednesday night, the decrease being due to the frosts last week and Sunday night. Digging of potatoes and picking of peas kept the movement from being a blank the latter part of this week.

COLD—LAKE HIGH WENT TOGETHER

High level of the lake does not prevent frost—it does not even mitigate the severity of the cold, so far as the record of experience indicates.

As damaging a spell of cold weather as the Lake region ever had was the last days of 1926 and the first two days of 1927, when the lake was at elevation 1822 feet.

year the lake was at elevation 17.4 feet when the temperature went to 27 degrees right on the spot.

Farther back than that, it was the same way: There was a temperature of 31 degrees on January 1, 1926, when the lake was at elevation 18 feet.

DREDGING CONTRACT

Bryan & Holloway got a contract November 28 from the war department to excavate 90,000 cubic yards of earth from the east end of the canal between Boynton and Delray Beach. Both members of the firm have Everglades connections.

POSSIBILITIES

Mr. James Rodgers, pastor of the Baptist church, gave a short talk during chapel Friday. His subject was "Hidden Possibilities." Using as illustrations the hidden possibilities discovered in recent years in nitrogen, coal, wheat corn, etc., he convinced us all that we may have more in us than we have given ourselves credit for. Possibly we can make an A in Latin after all; possibly we may develop into good basketball players, possibly—well, there is no end to the possibilities.

December 14, 1789, is a date which is of very great importance to the people of the United States.

On that day more than a century and a quarter ago America lost one of the greatest men of her history. That man was George Washington.

Washington's life has been read and discussed many times, and no doubt his name still lives through history for years longer. It proved himself worthy of the name given him and his memory is honored by every American citizen.

We like to remember the great and noble things he did for America and her people. They show us the fineness of his character, his loyalty, his devotion to our country and the many sacrifices which he made for his people. Washington.

ton always laid his shoulders to the great points knowing that the small ones would take care of themselves. Just as Ben Johnson has been spoken of as "Rare Ben Johnson," so Washington became known as "The Great Child."

During the Revolution he was principal commander on the American side. Later he became president of the Constitutional Convention and in 1789 he became president of the United States. He favored a strong and central government which should be free from European alliance. His first administration was marked by violent political controversies. These were perhaps intensified by the French Revolution which was then going on.

The boys and girls are all of the things for which we like to remember George Washington, who during his time, and now, we know as "Father of our Country."

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR GAMBLERS

There have been installed in our good city of Pahokee the past week a large number of training schools for gamblers, crooks and thugs of different kinds in the form of slot machines with vending attachments. Protected as they are now doesn't keep them from having an unwholesome effect upon the minds of young boys and girls and will harden the "gambling conscience" that innocent young people of today should have so that they will enter into a career of gambling of similar and even worse nature without any feeling of wrong whatsoever.

The Boy Scouts of Pahokee at their regular meeting Tuesday evening, December 15, voted unanimously that the troop be represented in trying to have these machines removed from our good town.

For the sake of the boys and for the moral uplift of our community let's lift our voices against this evil influence.

YES INDEED, HOW SOON?
Elsewhere in this issue there is reprinted from the Miami Daily News an editorial the chief significance of which is the caption, referring to the time when—or when not—"control" will be effected over the Everglades.

"Congressman Drane said several months ago that money was immediately available to the War Department corps of engineers for work of flood control in the Lake Okechobee and Caloosahatchee river area, but the survey was not started until Okechobee Flood Control District advanced $50,000. President Hoover "makes out" that he and his advisers are very anxious to get public work started to relieve the business depression, but the Everglades make out "what's holding him."

Several distinguished citizens have been credited, severally and singularly, with having brought about the inclusion of the Okechobee flood control in the Rivers and Harbors bill. Have they lost their pull or their pep, that they can't get things going a bit faster?

There have been enough surveys of St. Lucie canal that work could be started on it before the 1931 rains came and clog it and bottle Lake Okechobee without adequate outlet. As the Miami Daily News says, "How soon?"

THE PATENT SETTLED IT

Certain lands in Florida known as the Everglades were granted to the State of Florida under an act of congress of 1850 on the condition that "the proceeds of said lands, whether from sale or by direct appropriation in kind shall be applied, exclusively, as far as necessary, to the purpose of reclaiming said lands by means of the drains and levees aforesaid."

The question sometimes comes up as to whether or not the State of Florida has legally complied with this condition. The first question whether the United States can do anything about it, if the state has not.

Those questions have been authoritatively answered—they were answered when Theodore Roosevelt, then president of the United States, on April 29, 1903, signed the patent that conveyed the title to the State of Florida. It was absolutely vested in the State of Florida regardless of anything that had or had not been done in the past or that has or has not been done since then.

This article does not undertake to deal with the question of the moral obligation of the State of Florida to do anything in connection with the Everglades. Its subject is solely the origin of the title the state acquired.

There was a time in the history of mankind when the king of a country held title to all land that he had not granted to his subjects, for the king was supposed to be God's agent, holding title for the Lord. "Behold, the heavens and the heaven of the heavens is the Lord's; the earth, also, with all that therein is." The earth existed for God's children. The king, under this theory of the divine right of kings, could do no wrong; if the king, God's agent, granted, or patented, a piece of land to one of his subjects, that settled it; you couldn't go back on the patent the king had signed. If any wrong had been done, it was not the king who did it—it was the king's ministers; the minister was to be punished, not the king. This is not history, sound theology and sound law; until the American Revolution this was the law in the British possessions in what is now part of the United States.

When the government of the United States was formed the people of the United States succeeded to the power and possessions of the British king; there was public domain but the ownership was in the people and not in the king. God's children had come into possession of a part of the earth without the intervention of a king; the king, the people had no respect, but the people had an agent in the person of their president to whom they delegated certain of the attributes of the former king; somebody had to sign the patent when a portion of the public domain was to be transferred, and a president instead of a king became the person to sign the patent.

The rule had, however, that the king could do no wrong; the president could do no wrong when he signed a patent under a law of congress. The only way to get a land title under a patent from the government, signed by the president, was to prove fraud, no other way.

Federal court will entertain a bill of complaint that charges fraud by the president of the United States.

When President Roosevelt signed the patent to the Everglades to the State of Florida, he certified the receipt of a consideration that made the transaction binding and secure from attack. "In consideration of the premises and in conformity with the act of congress . . . to have and to hold the same, together with all the rights, privileges, immunities and appurtenances thereto belonging, unto the said State of Florida, in fee simple, and to its assigns forever."

That settled it—that was all there was to it, there was nothing to argue about. The State of Florida, through its legislature, was free to do any blessed thing with the Everglades it wanted to—every department of the United States was as entirely and completely done with it as the matter of death never had anything to do with it. The patent declared that the State of America so far as the Everglades was concerned.

HOW SOON?

From The Miami Daily News.
Central Florida again surveys fields of withered plants. The farmers gambled with frost and lost. The rich trucking area along the east shore of Lake Okechobee suffered damage estimated at 40 to 75 per cent of its crop, with an almost total loss of snap beans and other tender plants farther south. Such frosts, they will tell you, are "unusual." They come, however, with too great regularity to give assurance of successful crops, year after year, just as the winter vegetable market has shown marked improvement in prices. There is some consolation in the fact that the resultant shortage of the winter crop brings a jump in prices, but it is a poor consolation when it is considered that other sections at the same time may have escaped the frost.

There is more encouragement in the knowledge that frost damage may be prevented, to a large extent, with proper preparation. The present few of the lakeshore farmers with the little tracts they operate on have not been able to afford the installation of such equipment. They have faced the hazard of frost as well as the danger of frost that controlled flooding of the land would largely eliminate. Once the damage is done, however, the status of the small farmer will change rapidly. Now he can raise his big water pump and pump as can the large landowners; he must look to government aid for flood control. When this is provided, however, farming generally will be placed on no safe foundation that there will be for him who cannot afford frost protection. The same measure of water control will mean the end of the firmance.

Frost, flood and fire all may be conquered by water control. How soon?

WHAT PEOPLE SAY

D. R. McNeill says that land is the most valuable possession on earth, and that you can do most anything with it. He says if you own a piece of land, you can do anything with it. He says if you own a piece of land, you can do anything with it. He says if you own a piece of land, you can do anything with it.

CANE AND WAY, TOWN CAN BE SEEN

Sugar cane adjacent to the town having been removed, motorists who approach Canal Point from the east get a view of the town that is new even to residents, for the 20 dwellings built by the sugar company two years ago are now put in sight from Connors Highway. An appearance of extent and activity is made more manifest by the presence of the carnival company's outfit on the ridge, the merry-go-round booming up like an Eiffel tower.

AROUND THE LAKE

At Okechobee as at Canal Point, trucks are being weighed free on the scales of the Okechobee Mill & Elevator Company which put in scales to weigh corn. Homer Hand is delivering stakes for the road north from Lakeport along the lakeshore.

Jack Taylor is in the business of shipping muck from Moore Haven. Teachers and pupils of Moore Haven high school played a game of basketball and the students won by a score of 18 to 6.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE IS ASSURED

The kiddies of Canal Point are very happy over the announcement that we will have another Christmas tree at the Canal Point school this year as we had last year. The program, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association, will be bigger and better in every way, which is due to the fine cooperation of the people of Canal Point.

Mrs. H. L. Speer, as general chairman of all committees, has done noble work in organizing and planning.

The following committees were appointed, with chairman of each: Decoration, Mrs. L. C. Goolbsy; publicity, R. E. Bishop; purchasing, Mrs. H. A. Littman, assisted by Mesdames Vann and Polansky; program, J. B. Cox; preparation, Mrs. J. A. Fuller; distribution, Mrs. Rose Wills. The untiring efforts of these respective committees assure us that Canal Point will feel proud of her annual community Christmas program. The program will be given by the school Monday evening, December 22, at 7:30 o'clock at the school grounds, under the direction of J. B. Cox. All parents, school children, pre-school, and friends of the school are cordially invited.

The following program has been arranged by the school: Prayer, Rev. R. E. Stars, Introduction, Mrs. Speer. Santa Claus' arrival.

Song, "Christmas Story," second grade. Old Santa Claus, Myrtle Willis. "Merry, Merry Bells," second grade.

The Old Fashioned Christmas, Lyle Taylor. "I Hung Up My Stocking," first grade girls.

HOTEL AS AID TO F. O. B. MARKETING

A really good hotel and dining room is required to maintain a good F. O. B. market. This is a conclusion reached by growers who notice that many buyers leave the Lake region and go to the east coast to do their buying after a frost when production is cut down. When some buyers leave, competition is lessened and the number of possible outlets is reduced.

It is not altogether because of slack hampers here that Pompano gets a better price than the Lake sections, according to this view. Pompano is close enough to ten derlin steaks and baked potatoes—and other things—to attract buyers to that district.

One big farmer on the lake looks forward to the time when he can assist in the establishment of an inn with excellent accommodations chiefly to hold buyers in his locality. He would have rooms large enough that a buyer could invite in a group of friends and "throw a party" if he wanted to.

There were showers of rain to day in the Canal Point district.

COMMUNITY GOSSIP

The question was being discussed, "Why is this close-in case being cut out instead of the case farther out?" and a member of the group said: "Well, you can be sure there is a reason for it. I got Man Bryant studies things and he never was wrong in what he does but he never was a reason for it. I have figured that he was going to get the best of it by doing it the way he does it."

It is pretty well agreed that the best way to maintain a good F. O. B. market is to have a good place for the buyers to stay at. It would be a good idea for the farmers to ship in and build a good hotel; the only thing wrong about the idea is that the farmers haven't enough money.

Bob Baker used to have a troupe of performing cats that entertained the customers (and bankers) at his place, but the cats got old of some pampered meat and died. The customers (and bankers) are demanding that Bob get them some more cats.

There is one note that Mr. Lynch of Columbus, R. C., the seed loan administrative officer, will not collect the negro who got the loan is dead and buried.

Having gotten money on the crop mortgage, the negro picked a drunk and stayed drunk while he made a trip to New Smyrna, where his drunken insolence led him getting shot and killed.

Pahokee's possession of a Rotary Club made it possible for its members and its visitors to learn of the League of Nations from a resident of Palm Beach county who has seen and heard men who are actors in the theater of the League in the greatest drama of the age. It is this knowledge and interest in the affairs of the world that make men different from the horses and bores creatures. Ships cross the seas, and the cable carries messages, and the radio brings words, but for understanding it is still necessary that there be personal contacts. Forty years ago he was a great man in his circle who could say, "Shake the hand that shook the hand of John L. Sullivan" and gives a thrill today to see the man who has seen Brian of France and Henderson of Great Britain. This interest in our fellow man excuses the crowds that throng the dock to see Einstein.

LOWER PRICES AND HIGHER QUALITIES

How extensively automobile prices are receding in the face of constantly improving quality is aptly illustrated by a comparison of prices of the new 1931 Chevrolet six as against prices in 1928 when the old four cylinder car was being built.

A model-by-model price comparison reveals that every model popular in the domestic market is at least $20 lower today than was the corresponding four cylinder model, and that the price differential varies as much as $120 in favor of the new 1931 sport coupe which replaced the old four cylinder sport cabriolet in the 1928 line.

The 1931 roadster, at $475, is $20 lower than the roadster of the 1928 line. The coach, now $545, is $40 lower, and the present six cylinder standard coupe lists at $535, or $60 less than its four cylinder prototype of two years ago. At the top of the four cylinder price range stood the convertible landau, priced at $715, while today the special sedan is the aristocrat of the six cylinder line and lists at only $620, or a reduction of $65.

Similarly, the present sport coupe at $575 represents a reduction over the four cylinder sport cabriolet of 1928.

Receding prices do not tell the complete story, however. While prices have come down, quality has consistently climbed, and many accessories which formerly were extra are now included as standard equipment such as wire wheels and shock absorbers which formerly cost the buyer $40 and $25 respectively.

CANAL POINT M. E. CHURCH Once again we come to the Christmas season, the season of gifts as we give and receive with the spirit of the great gift to mankind, the Christ child. Or will our minds be centered on the earthly aspects of giving. May God help us each to get a spiritual uplift from Christmas because we see the love of God that gave, for the Christmas sermon Sunday, Dec. 21, 11 a. m. "The Room for Christ at the Inn." Scripture, Luke 2-120. The meaning of Bethlehem explained. Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.

The Sunday school will have charge of the services Sunday Dec. 21, 7:30 p. m. and will sing what they will render their Christmas program. Besides appropriate Christmas songs, readings and recitations, there will be the pantomime of the birth of Christ, composed of sixteen characters. At the close of the services every boy and girl present will receive a Christmas treat. The parents are urged to come and bring their children. The children will be called according to their class and every teacher is urgently requested to be present and lead their class, and to see that no one is slighted. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. The Christmas tree feature will be omitted on account of our co-operation with the community Christmas tree which is to be at the school house.

R. E. STARS, Pastor.

BOY SCOUTS

Troop 24 of Canal Point is fortunate in securing W. H. Vann and J. S. Harrington as members of the local scout committee. They take the places of E. L. Allen and Allen Crowley, who have moved away. Jesse Elliott will be with us as chairman of the committee of which George Kingsley and Harold Rosenberg hold over from last year.

The troop hopes to have several second-class scouts qualified by the first of the year, as several have but one or two tests lacking. At the regular meeting Tuesday night applications were entertained from James Lang and W. G. Neaves. Walter Miltron passed the tenderfoot test, and became a member of the troop.

H. J. CHAFFER, Scoutmaster.
